urban acupuncture

social-environmentally conscious urban design

UNIVERSITAS PEMBANGUNAN JAYA

ABOUT THE SEMINAR

PREFACE International Seminar: Urban Acupuncture: Socio-Environmentally Conscious Urban Design aims to explore the different ways manipulation of built environment can target social and environmental issues and trigger positive changes in our urban areas.

This perspective of social and environmental consciousness is critical in the lights of climate change and increasing inequality in Indonesia, especially in the biggest cities. Urban acupuncture initiatives are expected to carry a chain reaction, revitalising and invigorating the city by way of changing one particular node in an urban spectrum.

The international seminar will be conducted through an online-offline hybrid system to facilitate rousing discussions between the audience and the speakers. It is our wish that upon joining this event, all participants will have better understanding of the concept and context of urban acupuncture and are able to implement this knowledge to their respective future projects.

We invite students and participants from Indonesia and from various international institution to join this seminar, both on our campus site and online through Zoom or YouTube Live Stream.

International Seminar: Urban Acupuncture: Socio-Environmentally Conscious Urban Design is supported by Grant from The Ministry of Education and Culture.
